How Your Collagen Levels Decline Over Time

✓SOFT LIFT_{USA}

As we age, our collagen production naturally declines, leading to looser, thinner skin, fine lines, and wrinkles.

- Collagen levels drop by about 1% per year starting in the mid-20s
- This loss becomes more noticeable in the 40s and 50s
- External factors like sun exposure, stress, and lifestyle choices can speed up this process.

PDO thread treatments help stimulate collagen production, restoring skin firmness and elasticity for a more youthful appearance.

Collagen is the key to youthful, healthy skin!

- This essential protein provides structure, strength, and elasticity, keeping skin firm, plump, and smooth.
- It also supports hydration and wound healing, making it crucial for maintaining a radiant complexion.
- As collagen levels decline with age, skin can become looser, thinner, and more prone to wrinkles.

Treatments like PDO threads help stimulate natural collagen production, restoring firmness and improving skin texture for long-lasting rejuvenation!

To combat the natural decline of collagen, PDO threads offer a powerful, non-surgical solution by activating the body's own healing response.

This innovative treatment stimulates collagen production and boosts blood circulation, leading to firmer, smoother skin with improved texture and tone.

The threads are gently placed under the skin using a cannula, triggering collagen synthesis in the targeted area. Over time, this process restores volume and gradually tightens the skin, delivering natural, long-lasting results.

Lifting PDO threads provide an immediate lift while also stimulating collagen production, with results that can last up to a year.

While the PDO threads dissolve within 3-6 months, their collagen-boosting effects can last up to 24 months, helping to maintain a youthful, refreshed appearance.
